

"You could hear a pin drop as a packed room of college students listened intently to this important message. While this tragic event, which shows what can happen while drinking and driving, is the central theme, there are many inspirational and motivational elements of this powerful presentation.

The Streiters were able to deliver positive ideas and direction to the audience on numerous levels, and I'm sure that everyone in the audience was able to take away something in the presentation that will enrich their lives."
